Max finished slurping his soup when suddenly a wave splashed past his bed. Next, came his tiny boat loaded with the wild things! Then, vines, trees and a full moon filled his room. The wild things said, "We miss you so, come back to us, you can not go!" Max said, "No!" "But you can stay and we can play, we'll have some fun, I'll send you home when we are done." The wild things growled and cheered. They danced on mountains and swung from branch to branch. Max yawned- the wild things knew it was time to go. They tucked Max in bed and said, "We love you so- we'll play tomorrow, and it's time to go."
